If you are unsure what your skill level is for a course, we can assess your level of experience before you book. This is usually done through a meeting with one of the student coordinators or the Executive Chef.

If you cannot attend a meeting, then we can do an assessment over the telephone.

Please call us on 020 3857 4790 or email info@chefacademyoflondon.com

3. Equal Opportunities

We are committed to ensuring that no students receive less favourable treatment on the grounds of race, sex, religion, marital status, nationality, ethnic origin, disability or sexual orientation.

All students will be provided with the appropriate training for their needs, regardless of their race, sex, religion, marital status, nationality, ethnic origin, disability or sexual orientation. Chef Academy of London will make no distinction based on such grounds between the training, facilities and benefits it provides to its students.

It is the responsibility of all students to ensure that they abide by this policy, and you can contribute in particular by:

- Not discriminating against fellow students, tutors, suppliers, Chef Academy staff and members of the public with whom you come into contact with for the duration of the course.

- Not inducing or attempting to induce others to practice unlawful discrimination.

If you consider that you are a victim of unlawful discrimination, you should raise this issue through the grievance procedure. You should be ensured that Chef Academy of London will at all times take such allegations seriously and will carry out a full investigation and take appropriate measures against unacceptable behaviour.

4. Health & Safety

All participants should wear shoes with flat, non-slip soles and covered toes. You cannot enter the kitchen unless you are wearing the correct footwear, you must wear your chef's uniform at all times, long hair must be tied back in the kitchen and if necessary wear a hairnet. We are not responsible for any damage that occurs to your clothing.

Please inform us in advance of any allergies, disabilities, diabetes, pregnancy, epilepsy, learning difficulties and anything that we may need to know for your own safety and the safety of others.

The school takes the matter of illegal drugs very seriously. We are aware of the hazards of cooking under the influence of drugs or alcohol. Substance abuse at the academy is a matter taken very seriously. The alcohol/drugs can heighten feelings of disorientation and may potentially create hazardous situations for both students and staff. If a student is attending our courses under the influence of alcohol, solvents or illegal drugs, then there will be consequences such as a fixed period exclusion. More serious disciplinary consequences will be considered, dependent upon individual circumstances.

5. Certificated Courses

All of our courses offer a Chef Academy diploma, accredited by ASIC (accreditation service for international school, colleges and universities) upon successful completion of a course. Successful completion of a course is determined by the chef tutors/chef trainers, based on a minimum rate of attendance, learning progress and attitude. Upon completion of the course there is a written assessment, you must have a pass rate minimum of 85%. Certificates are issued at the discretion of the chef tutors. Please note, to maintain the value of our course certificates, students that have a partial attendance record will find that reflected on their course certificate. The certificate must be collected from our office, otherwise £30 shipping fee is applicable.

6. International Students

International students, if you are not from the EU, you will require a short term student visa to enrol for any of our courses

When making your Visa application you must supply all of the information required by the Embassy. Failure to do so will result in your application being refused and you will not be issued a refund. If you are given the right to appeal the decision we will postpone the course start date.

If you are not permitted the right to appeal you will not be issued a refund but you may re-apply.

You will only be issued a refund if your application is refused due to matters completely beyond your control.

7. Course Programme

The course programme is subject to change due to choice of restaurant partner and/or seasonal produce.

*Due to the high level of training, students enrolled for the Michelin Star Course might begin their training directly in one of our Michelin Star restaurant partners.

8. Restaurant Partners

Our team of coordinators at Chef Academy work alongside our executive chefs who assess each student individually to determine their skill level and capabilities, to enable us to decide which of our restaurant partners would be the most suitable for them to start their live training. Once this has been agreed between all parties, the student will spend 200/250 hours in the restaurant. The restaurant will not be changed unless a serious issue or misconduct according to our terms and conditions has been reported from both the chef trainer and the student.

Our courses are highly professional and practical. Students will learn how to work in a professional kitchen. Their role in the kitchen will be equivalent to a demi chef de partie. During the course, students will spend most of their time in a professional environment. This will allow them to understand how a live kitchen works. While in the kitchen they will be considered as a member of the kitchen team. This allows them to have an understanding of what being a chef means.

The restaurant's Head Chef will be the main tutor but not the only tutor, that doesn't mean he/she will spend all of their time with the student. Students will spend time in every section of the kitchen being trained alongside the chef de partie and/or kitchen staff, the Head Chef will supervise this training.

Students are required to partake in any tasks that need doing in the kitchen, with no exception (from food preparation, mise en place, assisting the chef de partie, service assistance, and any other tasks the head chef finds relevant). The students' level and skills will be assessed by the chef and this will determine the tasks a student is given, they may not be able to do certain things and may be moved onto different sections or assist with service.

9. Live Training

When you start your live training with any of our restaurant partners, you are expected to abide by the rules of the kitchen, this means arriving on time, following your schedule, informing the Chef and Chef Academy of London of any lateness or absence. The training is not classroom style. You will train alongside the chef in charge of each section. You must listen to their instruction and behave accordingly. This type of training is very hands on. You will be given a programme of what you need to learn and most importantly you are the leader of your training.

10. Class Hours and size

The set hours for training within Chef Academy development kitchen are 9.00 - 17.00. This can change on a daily basis due to certain tasks/sectors taking different amounts of time. Students will be expected to clean the station that they have been working at.

We require a minimum of 5 students on each course. If we do not have 5 students enrolled for any course, Chef Academy has the right to postpone the course start date. This will be communicated at least 7 days before the course is due to start.

11. Assessment

Although our courses are highly practical, students will be required to sit a written assessment upon completion of the course. The assessment is based on the skills and techniques learned during the training.

12. Payment

All of our courses require payment in full at least eight weeks before the course start date.

All of our courses require a 10% deposit: (this is a non-refundable) and it must be paid at the time of booking to secure a place on the course. The full balance of the course must be paid at least eight weeks before the course start date. Failure to do so may result in losing your place on the course and retention of your deposit.
